Description of Services

Cultural services

Art counselling

Many buyers and sellers have a need for additional fine arts background information, opinions of artistic quality, authenticity, evaluation of physical condition and other supplemental research and market analysis before the acquisition or liquidation of works of art. We offer these services as a professional confidential consultation.

However, consultations are not appraisals, they are professional research, recommendations and opinion for use lending assistance, guidance and information.

Unlike the estimates or offers one often receives from estate liquidators, antique dealers, art galleries and local auction houses, we offer our clients professional personalized in depth international market research and confidential individual consulting. We work directly with the international art market in order to obtain the best possible prices for our clients' fine art items.

First-choice exhibition openings

We can give you access to major exhibition openings before they are open to public so you and your client can enjoy art pieces in an intimate and calm environment

Art appraisal

We provide professional fine art appraisal documents to private clients, corporations and institutions. Our in depth fine arts research is conducted worldwide, using a network of expert international resources and computer database archives.
